

Speaking during a policy dialogue "Global Economic Turmoil and Asia-Pacific's Economic Prospects: Implications for Nepal" organised by UNESCAP and SAWTEE in Kathmandu Thursday, policy makers and economists rued the dominance of politics over economic agendas. They maintained that economic situation would not improve as long as politics continued to overshadow economic agendas.