International migration to and from the region is on the rise...

South Asia is an important region for migration as origin and destination

Top 15 countries of origin in Asia and the Pacific, 2000, 2010, and 2017 (Number of migrants)

Top 15 countries of destination in Asia and the Pacific, 2000, 2010, and 2017 (Number of migrants)
…Though migration takes many forms

- Labour migration is the main migration trend in Asia-Pacific
- Mainly South-South and intra-regional
- Other forms of migration
  - Seasonal employment
  - High-skilled migration
  - Student migration
  - Migration in response to climate change impacts
- Women make up a slight majority of the total migrant stock
- Many migrants take irregular pathways...
- While many others are smuggled and trafficked
Remittances to the Asia-Pacific reached US$276 billion in 2017.

Remittances help to achieve SDGs and reduce poverty:

- Reduction of number of people living in poverty by 6-7 percentage points in Kyrgyzstan between 2010-2013.

...and in countries of destination

- Migrants boost productivity and GDP growth in destination countries
  - Migrants contributed 3.1-6.2% of GDP in Thailand in 2013 (US$12-24 billion)
- Migrants pay taxes and consume in countries of destination, and can help build trade and investment linkages
- Migrants generally perform jobs complementary to national workers. Hence, create more jobs for domestic workers too yet migrants remain vulnerable and lack of social protection

- Migrants face exploitation and abuse, aggravated by factors such as irregular status, restrictive legal environments and gender discrimination
- Social protection is rarely extended to migrants
- High costs of migration and high costs of sending remittances

Even though
- International law recognises that migrants have equal rights, and should have equal working conditions
International cooperation on migration is critical

Regional frameworks

- Eurasian Economic Union provides a comprehensive framework for labour migration
- ASEAN Declaration on Protection and Promotion of the Rights of Migrant Workers
- ASEAN Convention against Trafficking in Persons
- SAARC’s Kathmandu Declaration - Cooperation to Protect Migrant Workers
- Bali Process on People Smuggling, Trafficking and related Transnational Crime
- Almaty process on Refugee Protection and International Migration
- Colombo Process and the Abu Dhabi Dialogue

Global frameworks

- High-Level Dialogues on Migration and Development of UNGA, 2006, 2013
- Global Forums on Migration and Development (GFMD)
- 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, Addis Ababa Action Agenda on Financing For Development
- The 2016 New York Declaration on Refugees and Migrants at UNGA launched the global compact on safe orderly and regular migration
Global Compact and the Asia-Pacific

- Ensuring safe, orderly and regular migration is a priority for the region.
- The global compact process offers an important opportunity to strengthen the global governance and enhance coordination on international migration.
- It would present a framework for comprehensive international cooperation on migrants and human mobility.
- The UN General Assembly mandated regional economic commissions of the UN like ESCAP to organize regional preparatory meetings of their members to feed into the global stock-taking meeting to be held in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico during 4-6 December 2018.
7 Key GCM priorities for Asia-Pacific

- Creating more and simpler regular pathways for labour migration of low-skilled workers, in line with countries' needs and development strategies, and international norms.

- Ensuring the fair treatment of migrant workers, including in informal sectors, such as domestic work, in line with national labour regulations, and human rights standards.

- Ensuring ethical recruitment with fair and transparent costs to avoid exposing migrants to situations of additional vulnerability.

- Reducing remittance transaction costs by creating regular low cost remittance channels.

- Creating opportunities for regular migration as a climate change adaptation strategy or those who are forced to migrate as a result of natural disasters.

- Combating trafficking and smuggling of migrant workers through information campaigns, better law enforcement, regional and subregional cooperation, and more opportunities for safe and regular migration, as well as through protection of victims of trafficking and smuggling.

- Increasing multilateral and multi-stakeholder cooperation on international migration to ensure policy coherence to address it in a comprehensive and balanced fashion.
Key highlights

- Recognized migrants as agents of sustainable development bringing positive benefits to both countries of origin and destination but often facing human rights abuses; sought to enhance their contributions through their empowerment

- Envisioned the global compact to be a forward-looking document centred around the fundamental human rights of migrants, regardless of status.

- Emphasised on shared responsibilities in managing migration including actionable commitments and mechanisms for follow up and review. To cover all dimensions of migration throughout the migration cycle, from pre-departure to return, should be gender sensitive

- Recognize the contribution of civil society, private sector and trade unions, and UN agencies including regional commissions, like ESCAP for regional follow up and review

- Highlighted the importance of cooperation to regulate and facilitate labour migration to mutually-beneficial ends between countries of origin and destination to be built upon for the global compact
